Tuesday was "Silicon Valley Gives," an event organized by the Silicon Valley Community Foundation to benefit charitable causes in Santa Clara, San Mateo and San Benito counties.

In celebration of the 100th anniversary of community foundations, the foundation organized some $4.8 million in matching grants meant to match donations from the public.

At 12:03 this morning, three minutes after the event finished, more than $3.4 million was still available for matching grants.

Raising A Reader, a national organization based at the Sobrato Center for Nonprofits in Redwood Shores, was one of many nonprofits hoping to get some help on Tuesday.
